SELINGSGROVE, PENNSYLVANIA

By W. M. SCHNURE

Selinsgrove, the site of the coming encampments of the Third and Fourth Brigades, National Guard of Pennsylvania, for 1913, is situated on the west bank of the beautiful Susquehanna River, 48 miles north of Harrisburg; 7 miles south of the Forks of the Susquehanna River at Northumberland, and 5 miles south of Sunbury.

By rail, Selinsgrove is about 153 miles from Philadelphia; 232 from Pittsburgh; 70 from Wilkes-Barre, and 46 from Williamsport.

Located on a division of the Pennsylvania Railroad, running between Lewistown Junction, on the Main Line, and Wilkes-Barre and crossing the Erie Division of the same road at Sunbury, Selinsgrove is easily accessible from all directions. Connections are made with trains on this line at Selinsgrove Junction, opposite Selinsgrove, and at Sunbury.

The Sunbury & Susquehanna Railway Company connects Selinsgrove with Sunbury and Northumberland by means of a modern electric street railway, which passes directly through the camp site and Rolling Green Park, two miles north of the camp.

The site of the encampments will be immediately adjacent to the

The several infantry regiments will be found to the left of the State Road, with the electric line immediately behind the camp limits. Here the station is located, where the cars pause before they cross Penn's Creek on a long viaduct into Selinsgrove.

Headquarters and the auxiliary troops are located east of the State Road, making each organization easily within reach from all sides, but at the same time in no way crowded, as room is no consideration.

Selinsgrove Borough boasts of a population of about 1500 and is characterized by a progressive spirit manifested in many ways. Paved streets mark the heart of the town while well-graded thoroughfares are the rule throughout its limits. Electric lights, with well lighted streets, excellent water and sewerage systems, good public schools, fire protection, several manufactures, two banks, five churches, Bell and Independent telephone exchanges, Western Union and Postal telegraph offices, several hotels and as many restaurants, a college and many beautiful homes all tend to give the town an air that is noticeable.

CAPTAIN FRANK M. GODLEY, COMPANY I, 13TH INFANTRY

northern limits of the borough of Selinsgrove, being separated from each other by Penn's Creek, a beautiful body of water formed in the famous Penn's Cave, Centre county, almost 60 miles to the northwest, thence flowing through numerous gaps in the eastern ranges of the Alleghenies.

The camp borders on the creek, whose banks are lined with huge buttonwood trees, which shade the visitors and at the same time cast their shadows on the mirror-like surface of the water with beautiful effects.

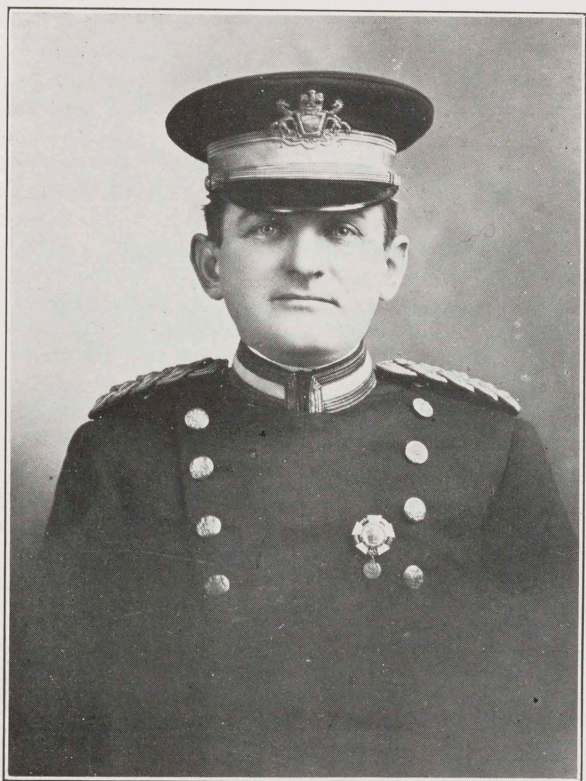

The camp may be reached by a three minute ride on the electric cars from Selinsgrove or a ten minute walk from the heart of the town, along Market street, a modern thoroughfare maintained by the State and consisting of a stretch of road six miles in length, terminating opposite Sunbury and crossing Penn's Creek on a massive iron bridge, also of State construction. This section of the public highway in this part of the State is known as the "Autoist's Delight."

The electric cars from the camp deliver their passengers into Sunbury in about 25 minutes.

To the lovers of Nature's beauty, this valley in which the brigades will camp and manoeuvre cannot help to appeal to them as on all sides scenery will be unfolded that characterizes the Valley of the Susquehanna in its travel through our State, and which especially is true in this beautiful mountain-walled territory, watered by this great stream, flowing lazily by the camps, only a moment's walk from the lines.

The morning sun will greet the "Sunrise" gun as its rays peep over the ranges of the Blue Mountain, silhouetted darkly against the eastern skies, mirrored on the broad, gently flowing waters of the Susquehanna—called the "Otzinachson," by the Indians, while the setting sun will sink behind the hills of Penn's Township, over whose heights the boys in olive-drab will troop.

The eastern ranges are broken through on their march into the southwest by the Susquehanna about three miles south of the camp, at a "Gap" characteristic of this river, throughout its length. The Gap is guarded by Old Mahanoy, the highest point in this section of Pennsylvania, its altitude being 1800 feet above sea-level, affording a magnificent view from its heights and is plainly seen from all parts of the surrounding territory, being a good point in which to be guided in the manoeuvres.

The Susquehanna River, passing the camp, is a mile in width, though this is misleading as many large and thickly wooded islands dot the surface of the river and completely shut out the sight of the town from the passing trains on the opposite side of the river. The Pennsylvania Railroad here crosses on an 18 span structure.

On the western edge of the borough, beyond the terminus of the electric line at Walnut street or College avenue, is located Susquehanna University, named after the mighty stream flowing within sight of the institution. The location is on a slight elevation which affords a beautiful view up and down the valley, backed by the hills beyond.

The campus and buildings are open for inspection by visitors, while the dormitories and dining halls will be available for the use of boarders during the period of the encampments.

Beyond the University, the surface of the land rises still higher, reaching an elevation known as Reservoir Hill, from which a panorama is spread before the eye of unusual splendor, embracing the broad Susquehanna from its entrance into this valley at the Forks in the North till it gracefully disappears around the base of Mahanoy—sentinel like in the South, a distance of almost ten miles.

Selinsgrove lies directly in the centre of the picture, with the college buildings in the foreground. On this northern edge of the town can be seen the tented city of the troops, while beyond Rolling Green Park, Sunbury, and the Forks of the Susquehanna, backed by the old town of Northumberland are in plain sight, all rich in historic lore.

This huge basin, as such it is, affords an interesting geological study, as the formation is stamped distinctively as being the result of glacier workings, evidently pending the period leading up to the breaking through of the great body of water held back by the mountains to the south and which resulted in the "Gap" beyond.

West of this elevation, or Reservoir Hill, spreads a plateau-like section, which gradually leads back into Middle Creek Valley, watered by the stream which gives its name to this region. This stream, rising in Jack's and Shade Mountains to the west, turns sharply to the south about three miles west of Selinsgrove, avoids the several elevations forming the west walls of the river basin and after flowing in a graceful "S" course, enters Penn's Creek about two miles south of Selinsgrove, one mile north of the mouth of the latter stream, where it in turn empties into the Susquehanna almost opposite Mahanoy Mountain.

To the historically inclined, the surrounding country is all that can be desired. Selinsgrove is the site of the first permanent settlement on the west side of the Susquehanna River, north of the Kittatinny or Blue Mountains, just north of Harrisburg. This dates from 1745 and in all probabilities, from about 1730. West of this river was then forbidden territory, as this stream in reality, formed the frontier of His Majesty, the King of England's Colonies in the Western Hemisphere. The Six Nations and the French, holding Canada and the territory west of the Alleghenies, claimed the ground upon which the camp is to-day. Held dear by the red men, as herein, walled on all sides by hills and washed by the broad "Otzinachson," the savages fished, hunted and buried their dead in this great river bottom and it is now claimed that tribes came yearly from the Northern Tier and even from Canada to partake of the valley's treasures in the form of game and health. This was also a very prominent territory to the Indians, as at the Forks, the Indian town of Shamokin stood, where Sunbury to-day stands, and formed one of the doors to the "Great House" of the Six Nations, probably the most powerful confederation of Indians in the early history of our nation.

No wonder the invasion of this "Happy Hunting Ground" of the savages was resented when the whites first settled on the "Isle of Que," as the present site of Selinsgrove was first known. It was meddling with fire for the colonists. The storm broke soon. Following the celebrated Braddock's defeat in the summer of 1755, the Indians officered by French from Canada, swept through the several gaps of the Susquehanna at the headwaters of its West Branch, struck the source of Penn's Creek, followed this stream to its mouth, leaving a bloody trail behind. Thus occurred the famous Penn's Creek Massacre on October 16, 1756, which the camp embraces within its bounds and which set the entire English Colonies wild with terror. The French and Indian War resulted.

John Harris, the Founder of Harrisburg, while endeavoring to bury the dead, about ten days later, was ambushed by a detachment of Indians and French again, at a point about two thousand yards southeast of the site of the camp, just beyond the State Bridge and till the ice gorges of 1904 finally swept it away, there stood the hollow shell of a sapling that had been split open at the time of the ambush as a marker.

This aroused the Province of Pennsylvania and a year later, in 1756, an expedition, headed by a Col. Clapham, marched up the Valley of the Susquehanna and after a strenuous march over the hills along the west banks of this river and through the bottom lands of the Isle of Que, reached the shore opposite the Indian town of Shamokin, where the regiment crossed and immediately commenced the construction of a fort later known as "Fort Augusta." Fort Augusta became at once and continued for almost thirty years, the strongest post in this portion of the United States, as it held the key to the Susquehanna Valley against the inroads of the British and their red allies during the Revolution, upon this then practically defenceless frontier. A visit to the site of this old landmark is well worth the time, as some of the original parts can yet be seen.

And so it is worthy to note and remember that almost to the day one hundred and fifty-seven years ago on the present site of "Camp Morrison"—July 5, 1756—the Augusta Regiment of Foot of the Provincial Forces of Pennsylvania forded Penn's Creek at about the site of the present camp, in this wonderful march through a wild country, guided by George Gabriel, the first known settler on the Isle of Que, whose home and clearing had been gutted the year before in the Penn's Creek Massacre.

Selinsgrove is embraced in the celebrated land grant of two thousand acres of land given to Conrad Weiser, the Great Indian Interpreter, in 1754, for services to the Province, especially at the great Indian Treaty of Albany, (N. Y.), in 1754.

SECOND LIEUTENANT C. A. P. BARTLETT.

The division line of this great treaty between the Six Nations and the Colonies started at a point about one mile north of this camp at the rivers edge and ran in a northwesterly direction, striking Lake Erie at about the present city of Erie. Everything north of this line and west of the North Branch of the Susquehanna River belonged to the Six Nations and the land south and eastward was the land of the Colonies. For obvious reasons, principally to not incur the wrath of the Indians, who claimed they had been misled by certain facts concerning this boundary, the line was never actually surveyed for any great distance westward.

The State Road running through the camp was originally laid out in 1772 and connected the two frontier towns of Carlisle and Sunbury, the latter town having just been created.

Simon Snyder, the War Governor of 1812, is buried in the old "Union" burying grounds in the heart of the borough, having died here at his mansion in 1819, after serving his commonwealth three terms in succession and being then promptly re-elected State Senator on his retirement from the Chief Executive chair of this State.

The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has erected a beautiful monument over his grave, the granite stone being surmounted by a bronze bust of the Governor and adorned on the sides by bronze the weather permits, the ground thoroughly dried inside, and the walls kept clean.

The medical officers attached to the respective regiments will make frequent daily inspection of tents, kitchens and latrines and report to their Regimental Commanders concerning the sanitary condition of the Camp. Regimental Commanders will be held responsible for the condition of the camps and especially the clean and sanitary condition of the kitchens at all times. Care will be taken to prevent the presence and accumulation of garbage, refuse and waste of every description in and about the camp.

Organization commanders are responsible for the police of their camps. They will construct kitchen incinerators for the disposal of solid and liquid garbage of their organizations, and no other disposal will be made thereof. Sanitary labor will be employed by the Quartermaster's Department and turned over to the Medical Department, to care for the latrines, which will be disinfected daily. The expense of the sanitary labor will be divided between the respective organizations, and may be made a disbursement from annual allowance funds. The urinal cans will be placed in each company street at dusk and designated with a lantern. They will be burned out daily and bottoms covered with lime, and be kept whitewashed or coated with slacked lime. Defilement of the ground in and about the camp is absolutely prohibited. At night each latrine will be lighted by a lantern.

tablets, showing in relief, the several epochs of note in the life of this distinguished statesman. The monument stands in the old burying ground that dates back almost a decade before 1800, both of which are carefully cared for by the local Conrad Weiser Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

The Governor's Mansion still stands on the east side of Market street, between Chestnut and Snyder streets, having been built of stone in 1816, and bordering a sunken garden on its south side, which adds to its stately appearance.

Selinsgrove is justly proud of its water supply, which is pumped from Penn's Creek, fresh from its headwaters in the foot hills of the Alleghenies, 40 miles away, to a huge concrete sedimentation reservoir and thence to the other reservoir mentioned before west of the town.

Brigadier General William G. Price, Jr., has made special provisions to insure the health and safety of "Camp Brigadier Henry, Clay Cochrane," Mt. Gretna, where the First Brigade will perform field duty, from July 19 to 26 inclusive. In drastic general orders, recently issued, General Price has given the following instructions to insure good camp conditions.

Regimental Commanders will prescribe and maintain a uniform plan for the arrangement of the interior of the tents of their commands. Such plan must be designated to facilitate a rapid and thorough inspection of equipment. Frequent inspection of quarters will be made during the tour of duty, and ratings will be based largely upon the uniformity of arrangement of the interior of the tents and equipment. The walls of the tents must be rolled up every day when Scrupulous cleanliness of everything pertaining to the mess will be maintained. Cooks must be clean and neat in person. Food will be protected from flies by wire or cotton screening or by covering with clean cloths.

Company Commanders will require their men to wash their hands before eating.

A box frame, filled with stones, will be sunk beneath each water tap to take up the overflow.

A bench for wash basins will be placed at a convenient point near each company water tap.

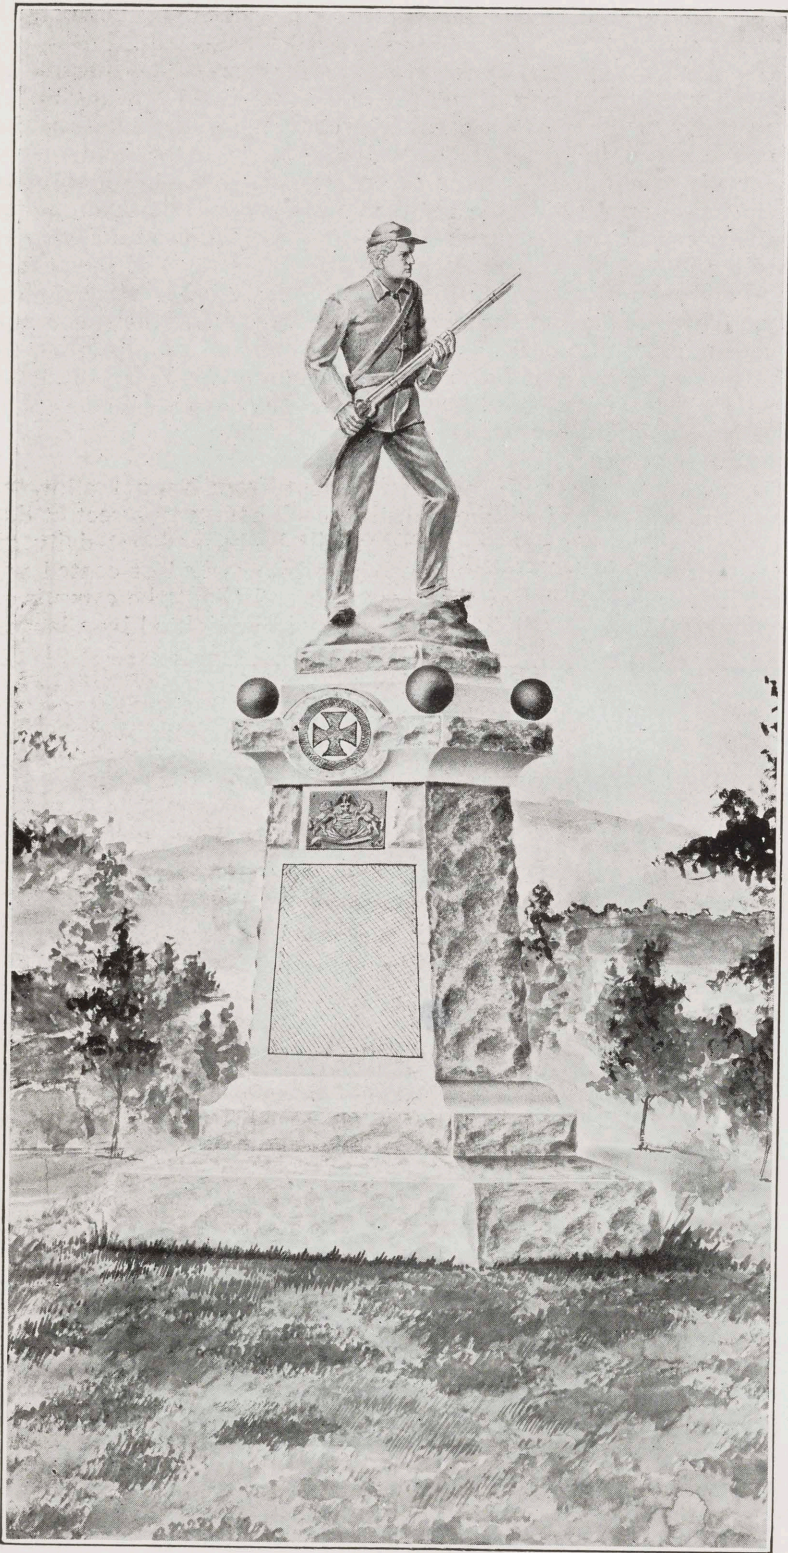

All water on the manoeuvre grounds, except that piped for the camp, should be regarded as unsafe for drinking purposes, unless a sign placed nearby indicates its purity.

Manure, camp wastes and sweepings of all kinds will be promptly disposed of.

Leaks or other wastage in the water system will be at once reported to the Brigade Quartermaster.

An inspection for ball cartridges will be made by company commanders before each exercise under arms, and a report of the result of such inspection will at once be made to the observer on duty with the organization. The finding of ball ammunition in the possession of any individual or organization will be made subject of a special report to these headquarters.

The firing of blank cartridges, except during the field exercises, talking or other noises, after taps, failure to daily clean and oil arms, are indications of lack of proper instruction and control by non-commissioned and commissioned officers, and should be the subject of immediate attention of commanding officers.

William F. Eisenbrown, Sons & Co., of Reading, have designed a number of monuments for the State for use on Southern battlefields, and their work has been highly praised. This firm has made a specialty of work of this character for the government, and for some of the leading municipalities of the Commonwealth. The above design is a typical product of the house, and shows at a glance the elegance and artistic nature of their efforts.

BULLETIN OF MILITIA NOTES
ISSUED BY THE DIVISION OF MILITIA AFFAIRS, WAR DEPARTMENT, FOR THE YEAR 1913.

Neither transportation nor horse hire of a sergeant-instructor of cavalry on duty with the Organized Militia, during a tour of duty with the Cavalry of the Regular Army, can be legally charged against a State's allotment under Section 1661, Revised Statutes. Not being a member of the Organized Militia, no part of the appropriation for the support of the Organized Militia can be expected in his behalf.

Information has been received from the Chief, Quartermaster Corps, that field desks pertaining to that Department are now ready for issue to the Organized Militia. Requisitions for these desks will now be honored and they will be supplied either as a charge against funds provided by Section 1661 of the Revised Statutes, as a charge against the State's allotment under Section 13 of the Militia Law (Act of May 27, 1908), or they may be purchased for cash from State funds under the provisions of Section 17 of the Militia Law.

Attention of disbursing officers is invited to the following: Form No. 64, Summary of Disbursements, is in error in having included "Pay of caretakers" along with items "Pay for laborers and mechanics" on target ranges.

In using this form disbursing officers should report the pay of caretakers separately, and all expenses in connection with construction and improvements of target ranges, including labor, mechanics, and material, should be reported under the heading "Construction and Improvements (cost of material)."

Attention is again invited to the fact that in no case can the pay and transportation of officers and pay, transportation and subsistence of members of the Organized Militia, in connection with target practice, be charged against that part of the allotment "Promotion of Rifle Practice."

The question has been asked, "Is it necessary to make out sepa-

LIEUTENANT COLONEL LEWIS E. BEITLER,
Secretary of the Fiftieth Anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg Commission.

Colonel Lewis E. Beitler is again demonstrating his sterling executive abilities as the Secretary of the Gettysburg Anniversary Battle Commission and with such success as to attract the attention and win the laudation of the entire country. His task has been herculean in its scope, but he has been equal to the occasion. To arrange living accommodations for 50,000 persons on a bare field, and to provide shelter and food for a new army of a week's duration has been an achievement well worthy of the hero of mythology and Colonel Beitler has "sized up to the job" in a manner that has reflected credit upon himself and his State. The great anniversary reunion will go down into history as the final chapter of the breach between the sections, and Colonel Beitler has done more than his share to inaugurate the new era of goodwill and fraternity between North and South. All Pennsylvania salutes Colonel Beitler, its gallant son.

rate pay rolls for civilian hire for each class of civilians employed on a range, such as caretakers, laborers, mechanics, markers, scorers, etc?" If there is a large number of employes of one class it is believed advisable to make out separate rolls, but where a small number of civilians representing different classes of labor mixed rolls will be received, but the amounts paid under each heading must be shown on the "Summary of Disbursements," thus enabling this Division to keep a complete and accurate account of all payments made by disbursing officers, and for the purposes disbursements were made.

For example: A pay roll submitted with the accounts of a disbursing officer shows that a total disbursement of $166.00 was made for payment of caretakers, markers, scorers and laborers, as follows: Caretakers, $30.00; markers, and scorers, $36.00; laborers, $100.00. On the "Summary of Disbursements" these amounts must be analyzed and shown opposite each subject under which payment was made, as follows:

Opposite caretakers	$30.00
Civilian markers and scorers.....	36.00
Laborers and mechanics	100.00

The printed instructions appearing on the pay roll form prescribed for the use of disbursing officers of the Organized Militia in making payments to members of the Organized Militia from Federal funds under Section 14, Act of January 20, 1903, as amended, provides that "men of different regiments or branches of the service should not be borne on one roll," and these instructions will be strictly observed except in the cases hereafter indicated.

Officers or enlisted men, or both, participating in instruction camps, or camps where a limited number attend from different organizations, may be mustered for pay on one set of pay rolls. In these cases the organization (regiment and company), or staff department to which each officers or enlisted man belongs must be set forth opposite his name in column of remarks on the pay roll.

The question having been asked as to a practical system of instruction for sanitary troops attending camps, the following method by which the proper instruction will be accomplished is deemed suitable.

For purposes of instructing the sanitary troops of the Organized Militia in the various camps the senior medical officer of the camp should direct all sanitary instruction. If a regular medical officer is in camp and requested to do so, he shall have charge of this instruction.

A programme to cover practical work expected of members of the sanitary troops to include the various drills laid down in the Drill Regulations for the hospital corps, first aid to the wounded, uses of the contents of the hospital corps pouch, camp sanitation and preparation of property papers, etc., will be made up and adhered to.

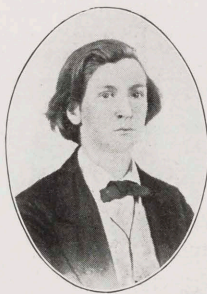

If a field hospital or ambulance company is present in camp the commander of these organizations will consult with the chief instructor relative to a scheme of instruction.

It is believed that the course of instruction for all members of the sanitary troops should be practical and consume at least five hours each day. The commissioned medical officers of the Organized Militia will be expected to act in the capacity of assistant instructors under the direction of the senior instructor and when not acting as such to attend all other classes.

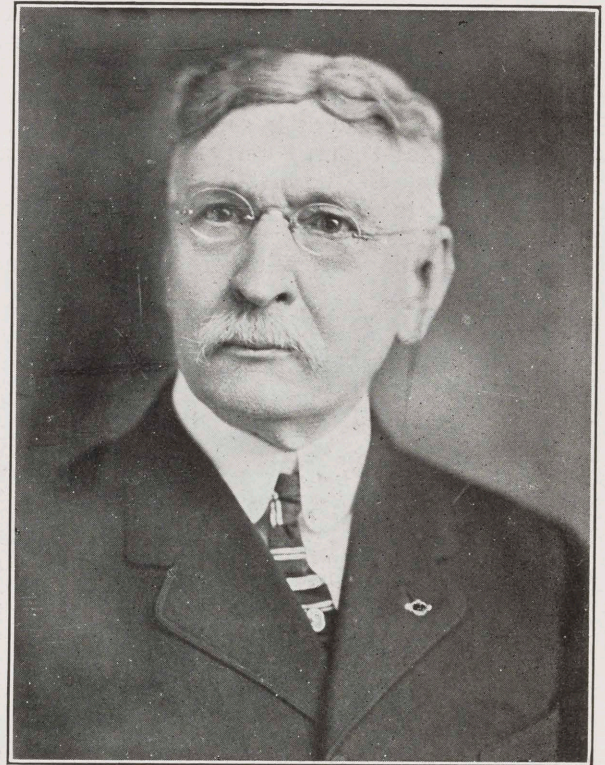

All panoramic sights in the Field Artillery are being modified to provide for illumination of the reticule and to make them conform to current drawings in other respects. Altered sights will be supplied to all Militia batteries in due course without requisition or charge to the allotment of the States.

It is not the intention of the War Department to modify sight shanks for 3-inch gun carriages now in service. New scroll gear springs when available will be supplied for all 3-inch batteries without requisition or charge.

A pamphlet by First Lieutenant John B. Barnes, Fifth United States Infantry, entitled "Elements of Military Sketching," has been adopted as a War Department publication and will be supplied to the Organized Militia in the usual way either as a charge against funds provided by Section 1661 of the Revised Statutes, or as a purchase for cash from State funds, under the provisions of Section 17 of the Militia Law.

COMRADE JAMES EMORY PORTER.

Among the prominent and distinguished younger Veterans of the Civil War is Comrade James Emory Porter, of McKeesport, Pennsylvania, who entered the service as a mere youth and shortly afterwards was promoted to Sergeant. He is a Past Commander of Post 3, Department of Pennsylvania, G. A. R., Pittsburgh, and a Past Department Commander of the Department of Virginia and North Carolina, and is actively engaged in business as Secretary of the Firth Sterling Steel Co., of McKeesport, Pa.

The following has been submitted for decision:

"Whether, in rapid fire during the record practice course, as detailed in paragraph 321 of the new Militia Firing Regulations, it is intended that the bayonets be fixed."

In answer thereto, the reply is made that that part of the Firing Regulations which prescribed the above is not as yet published and is subject to change. At present the ruling is the bayonet shall be fixed.

In view of a misunderstanding in regard to quarters or commutation of quarters furnished Militia officers when attending garrison or service schools, attention is invited to the following statement of a particular case and the decision of the Judge Advocate General of the Army on the subject:

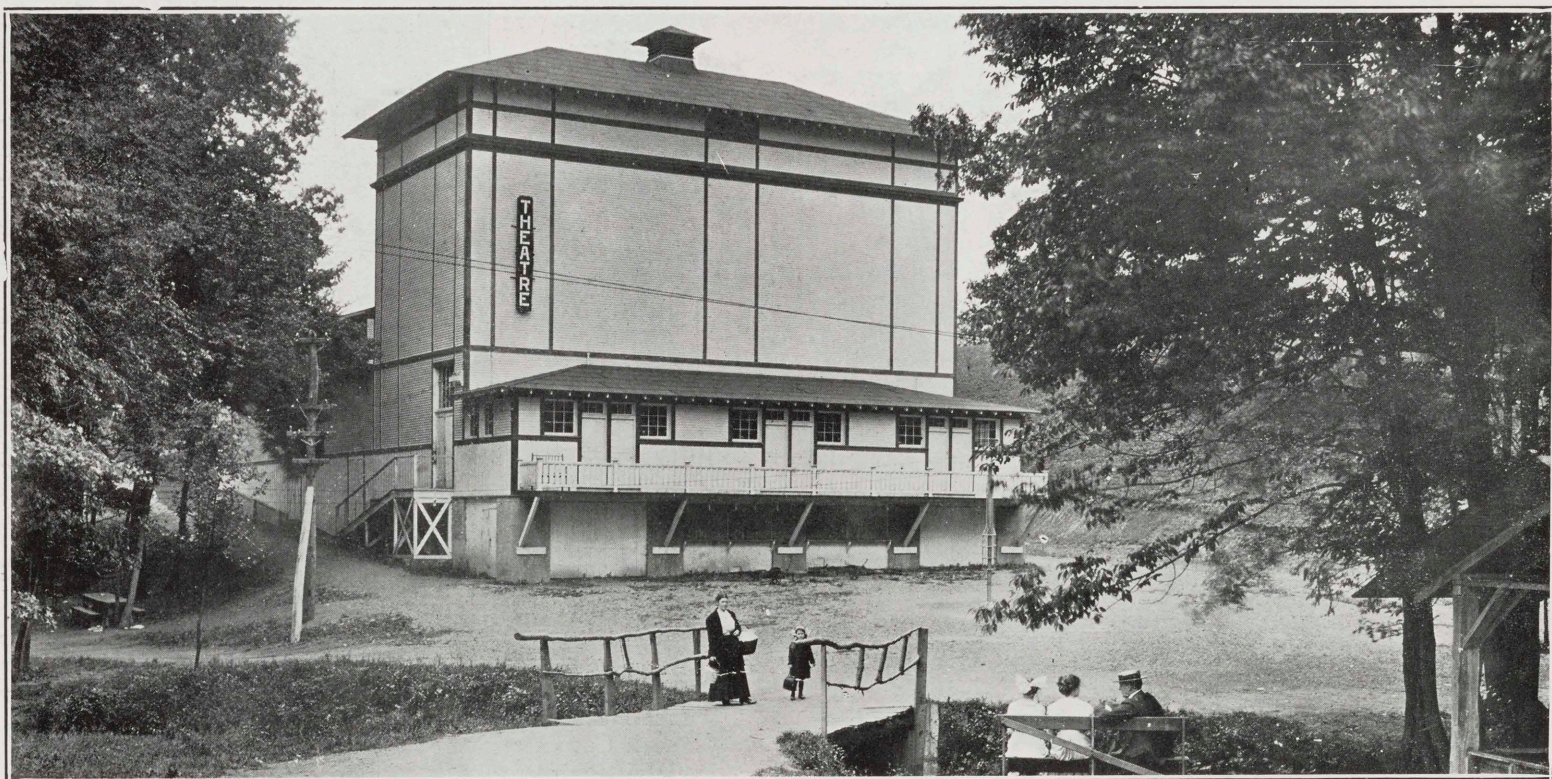

(a) On or about April 2, 1913, certain officers of the Organized Militia reported at Fort Leavenworth for the purpose of taking the course in the Army Field Service School for Medical Officers, and were assigned public quarters in the post. On or about April 5, 1913, they moved out of the public quarters which had been assigned them, and provided their own quarters, with the understanding that, under the provisions of paragraph 16, General Orders, No. 128, War Department, 1911, and paragraph 314 of the Militia Regulations, 1910, they themselves held the election as to whether they would receive commutation of quarters or public quarters in kind. They made the statement that they received orders from their Adjutant General specifically directing attention to the above, and they entered the Army would be entitled for attending such school or college under orders from proper military authority.' * * *

"Upon arrival at the school they were told by the Commandant that they could have quarters suitable for married officers or could occupy Root Hall, a bachelors' building. At that time they preferred the latter and moved into that building, but on or about April 5 moved out of it and provided their own quarters, apparently believing that they were entitled to either commutation of quarters or quarters in kind as they might elect. In view of the orders of the War Department and of the Regulations for the Organized Militia these officers had some reason for their belief. Section 16 of the General Orders, No. 128, War Department, 1911, provides that:

"The expense to the Government on account of militia officers attending the school is limited strictly to travel allowances, commutation of quarters, heat, light and subsistence. The travel allowances consist of the mileage or transportation allowed by law. Commutation of quarters will be the same as provided by law for officers of corresponding grades in the Army. Militia officers cannot be furnished with quarters in kind.' * * *

"Paragraph 341 of the Regulations of the War Department for the government of the Organized Militia contains substantially the same provisions as section 16 of the above order, including the provision that 'quarters in kind cannot be furnished to officers of the Organized Militia.' These officers now claim commutation of quarters from the time they moved out of Root Hall, April 6 to April 30., and payment has been refused by the Quartermaster on the ground that the officers school with the understanding that they would be furnished with commutation of quarters.

(b) These officers submitted to the Quartermaster, Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, claims for commutation of quarters from April 6 to 30, 1913, payment of which was refused on the ground that they were assigned public quarters in kind.

(c) In view of the misunderstanding arising in this case and of the law (35 Stat., page 402), or Militia Regulations, paragraph 314, and General Orders, No. 128, paragraph 16, War Department, September 19, 1911, which seem to be in contravention of the statutes, the entire matter was referred to the Judge Advocate General of the Army for an expression of his opinion on the subject.

(d) Under date of June 7, 1913, the Judge Advocate of the Army rendered the following opinion:

"1. The officers of the Organized Militia making this claim attended the Field Service School for Medical Officers at Leavenworth from April 1 to May 23, 1913, under Section 16 of the Militia Law, which as amended provides:

"That whenever any officer or enlisted man of the Organized Militia shall, upon the recommendation of the Governor of any State, Territory, or the commanding general of the District of Columbia Militia, and when authorized by the President, attend and pursue a regular course of study at any military school or college of the United States, such officer or enlisted man shall receive from the annual appropriation for the support of the Army, the same travel allowances and quarters or commutation of quarters to which an officer or enlisted man of the Regular had been assigned public quarters in kind, it being well established that an officer cannot acquire right to commutation of quarters by refusing to occupy quarters which have been assigned to him.

"2. I know of no authority for the rule that militia officers so circumstanced are not entitled to quarters in kind. It does not conform to the statute, which prescribes that they are entitled to the same quarters or commutation of quarters to which an officer or enlisted man of the Regular Army would be entitled for attending such school under orders from proper military authority. The statute is too clear to be questioned and the Appropriation Act for the support of the Army for the present fiscal year provides for 'furnishing heat and light for the authorized allowance of quarters for officers of the National Guard attending service in garrison schools.' It may well be that when the above rule was established public quarters in addition to those required for the regular officers regularly on duty at such schools were not available, but certainly if such quarters are available the militia officers may be assigned to them, and are not entitled to commutation of quarters. Militia officers attending a military school under the terms of section 16, as amended, supra, are entitled to quarters in kind or to commutation of quarters under the same circumstances as are regular officers similarly situated.

"3. A regular officer under the circumstances of these militia officers would not be entitled to commutation. Section 9 of the Act of July 17, 1878 (20 Stat., 150), as amended by the Act of March 2, 1907 (34 Stat., 1169), provides:

"That at all posts and stations where there are public quarters belonging to the United States officers may be furnished with quarters in kind in such public quarters, and not elsewhere, by the Quartermaster's Department, assigning to the officers of each grade, respectively, such number of rooms as is stated in the following table. * * * Provided, further, That at places where there are no public quarters commutation therefore may be paid to the officer entitled to the same at a rate not exceeding twelve dollars per month per room.' * * *

"The Army Appropriation Act for the present fiscal year provides funds for commutation of quarters to officers on duty without troops 'at stations where there are no public quarters.'

"4. In view of these provisions of law it is apparent that regular officers under the circumstances of these militia officers could not receive commutation of quarters, and by the same token these militia officers cannot receive it."

(e) In view of the above opinion, hereafter where a Militia officer reports for duty at a service school he will, immediately upon his arrival, make written application to the commanding officer for quarters. The application will be accompanied by a copy of the order directing him to report at the school.

Sergeants detailed for duty with the Organized Militia will wear the uniform of the arm of the service from which they are detailed; that is, sergeants of cavalry, for example, detailed for duty with the Organized Militia, although transferred to the infantry, will wear the uniform of the cavalry.

NEW MILITIA TRAINING.

Lieut. Jr. G., Louis E. Fagan, N. F. P.

The bill recently passed at Harrisburg giving the Naval Militia an increased annual appropriation has already enabled the nautical training of this branch of the service to be considerably extended. Week-end cruises are now taken at least thrice each month during the summer, the expense for rations being met by the State appropriation.

The Philadelphia Divisions alternate their cruises on the Worden and the Sylvia, the former a torpedo-boat destroyer, the latter a gun-boat. Both ships are berthed at the Navy Yard. There is always an objective point, and when it is reached, shore liberty is given whenever practicable. The next cruise will be to New York City over July 4th, and the Worden will be used for this purpose, being a very speedy craft and accommodating more men than the Sylvia.

Ever since its inception the Naval Militia of this State has labored under adverse circumstances, brought about by the small funds appropriated for its maintenance. Each division has, until this spring, been considered the equivalent of a company of infantry and has received the same allowances, but the newly passed bill has authorized the same allowances as are accorded to a battery of artillery, and with this amount the heavy expenses incurred by practice cruises are much more readily met.

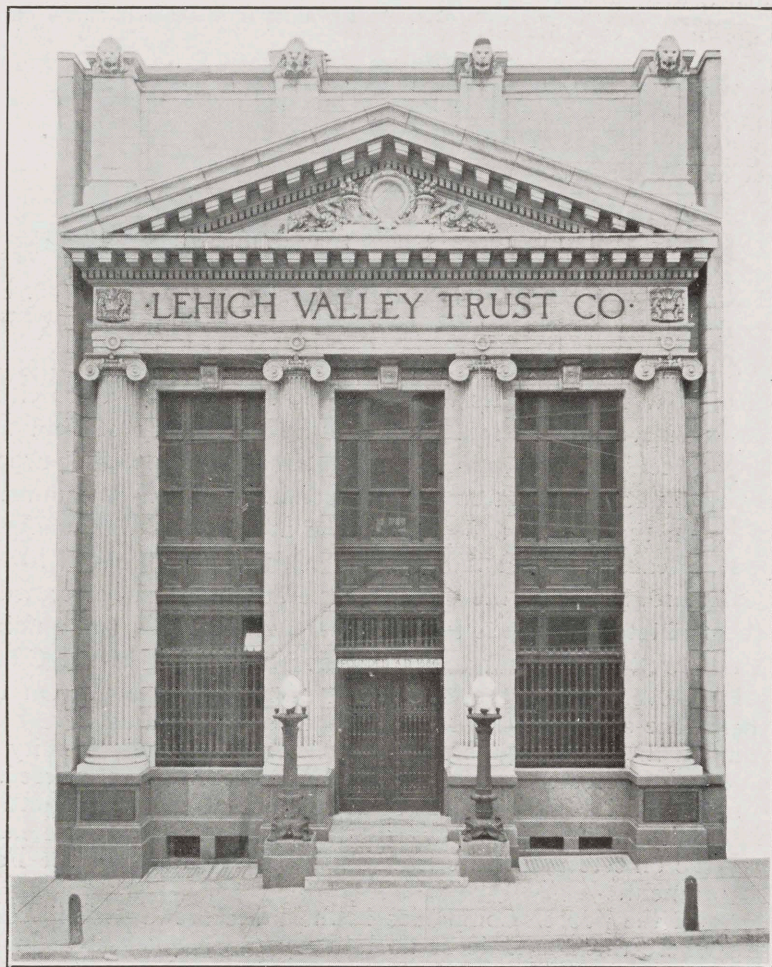

The annual tour of duty will be held on the Worden, the Sylvia, and the Wolverine. The Philadelphia divisions will be assigned to the first two ships and will leave League Island Navy Yard on July 12th, for Gardiner's Bay, Long Island Sound, where they will rendezvous with the New Jersey Naval Militia on the Vixen and the Marietta, and the Second Battalion from New York on the Gloucester.

These ships will drill and manoeuvre as a fleet, commanded by the Senior Commander present, and competitive target practice with 3-inch and 6-pound rapid fire guns will be held. The ships will then cruise along the coast independently, visiting such ports as are deemed most desirable.

As yet the tour of duty for the Erie divisions on the Wolverine is not definitely determined. This ship will be used to tow the famous Niagara from one port to another during the coming Perry Centennial Celebration on Lake Erie, and target practice will be held. Whether or not the Wolverine will fall in with the naval militia fleet on the Lakes for manoeuvres is rather uncertain, as she will be constantly employed during July and August inescorting the Niagara.

The Pennsylvania Naval Militia will probably enter a race-boat's crew in the regatta to be held this summer at Put in Bay, Lake Erie. Crews from nearly all the naval militias of the United States will be present to compete, and it is expected that very fast time will be made. The races will be held over a two or three mile course, both in cutters and in whaleboats.

Weekly drills are still being held at night, during which time the apprentice seamen are instructed in seamanship, signalling, etc., while for the more experienced men there are classes in special subjects.

The Lehigh Valley Trust Company, of Allentown, now occupying its handsome new building, which has won the admiration of all residents of that city. The structure occupies a historic site, in close proximity to Zion Church, where the Liberty Bell was secluded during the invasion of the British during the Revolutionary War. The building is one of the most beautiful in the State, and is a worthy home for one of Pennsylvania's most solid institutions.

Vol. XVI.

JUNE, 1913

No. 5.

The report of Inspector-General Sweeney, upon the spring inspections, in which he states that poor showings were due to either lack of executive ability, indifference or incompetency of field and company officers, is interesting. It should serve a splendid purpose at this time in attracting attention to a condition which puts unusual burdens upon the officers and places them at an unfair disadvantage. The Journal cannot accept the suggestion that the officers cited are below standard, but takes the view that the additional duties crowded upon them of late have made them targets for criticisms, and unfairly so. It is a well-known fact that the general efficiency of the Guard to-day is in every way superior to that of five years ago. On the other hand, the additional studies and requirements which have been shoved upon the officers give them but little, if any, opportunity to secure desirable recruits, and consequently the service has suffered.

What will solve the problem of attendance at drills and getting proper recruits into the Guard will be to pay the men. At the same time pay the officers and make it a business investment for the Federal Government.

Many of the poorer Companies in the State are located in communities where there is little or no military sentiment and in many towns to-day the people scarcely know that Guard Companies exist. Locate a community that is interested in its National Guard and you will find a first-class Company. The officers of the Guard are zealous in their efforts, but at present are handicapped in their endeavors. Give them a fair opportunity and the results will be of the highest order.

The Journal takes great pleasure in reproducing the following appreciation from the Sunbury Daily, of recent issue:

PUBLICATION IS OUT.

The Army and Navy Journal of Pennsylvania, issued at Philadelphia has been received by Sunbury's National Guardsmen. The publication is profusely illustrated with views of Sunbury and Rolling Green and contains a graphic account of the coming Third and Fourth Brigade encampments of the Pennsylvania National Guard at Rolling Green next month. The cuts are some of the best ever seen in illustrated editions concerning Sunbury and vicinity.

NOTES

Troop H, Captain McGovern, has undertaken a unique scheme this year on the horse proposition by making a contract for mounts for the use of the troop two weeks prior to the Encampment, conditioned that the troop forage them.

It has developed into quite a costly arrangement, but the results obtained are very gratifying. The troop undertook several tactical hikes and small manoeuvres, the most successful one being through Beaver county, on Sunday, June 29th.

The troopers were fully equipped for the field, and with them was an escort and combat wagon and a small rapid fire mountain machine gun, mounted on a mule. It was an up-to-date outfit.

Colonel Sheldon Potter, formerly Chief-of-Ordnance; Major John H. Duval, U. S. A., retired, and Captain Ralph W. Knowles, are greatly interested in a project to organize Battery A, Field Artillery in Germantown, and Colonel Potter expects to present a proposition to the Germantown Business Men's Association in order to secure their support in the movement. Colonel Potter is a practical artillerist, having been connected for many years with the original Keystone Battery A.

The Fourteenth Infantry, Colonel McKee, is busily engaged in preparing for the annual tour of duty at Erie, Pa. The Companies are in excellent condition, and the Regiment without doubt will make an excellent showing at Camp Gridley.

Captain William R. Conrad, formerly of the Eighth Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry, and a representative business man of Tamauqua, Pennsylvania, has been prominently mentioned as candidate for Sheriff of Schuylkill county. Captain Conrad has rare executive ability, and his sterling worth is recognized throughout the community.

Invitations have been issued for the Perry Centennial Celebration to be held at Erie during the week of July 6, 1913, in commemoration of the Centennial of the building of Captain Perry's fleet in the harbor of Erie, the victory of Lake Erie, and the hundred years of peace with a kindred nation that have followed. The secretary of the Centennial Committee is Lieutenant William L. Morrison, Naval Militia, Pa., through whose efforts the greatest part of the work has been accomplished. It was he who planned and put into execution raising and rebuilding the sunken hull of the Niagara, and it has been his zeal and energy that have enabled such elaborate plans to be perfected. Lieutenant Morrison is the senior naval militia officer in Erie, and is in command of the U. S. S. Wolverine. His painstaking and unselfish work for the service is well-known and thoroughly appreciated by his brother officers. An accomplished seaman, he entered the naval militia service several years ago, having organized two divisions at Erie, and his efficiency and earnestness have greatly impressed the command.

The officers of the Third Infantry will tender a unique dinner to General William G. Price, Jr., commanding First Brigade, and his staff, during the encampment at Mt. Gretna, on July 24, in commemoration of the fifteenth anniversary of the regiment's participation in the service of the United States during the Spanish-American War. Great arrangements are being made for the affair, under the supervision of Capt. and Commissary Louis H. Schmidt, and it is expected that the menu will compare favorably with that of any banquet at any of the large city hotels. It is unusual for a special dinner of this kind to be served upon the field, but the officers in charge predict that it will prove one of the most enjoyable affairs in the social history of the Guard.

Company K, of Lancaster, was again victorious at the Fourth Regiment rifle matches, held at Allentown, on June 21. The Lancaster Company won the Colonel O'Neill trophy for the highest score in the matches, the Rhoads badge; the Dickens badge for the highest individual score, which was taken by Captain Reitzel, and the Beary, Renninger, Trexler, Ruch and Headquarters trophies. The scores of the companies were: Headquarters, 449; Company A, Reading, 303; Company B, Allentown, 506; Company D, Allentown, 355; Company E, Harrisburg, 390; Company F, Pottsville, 308; Company H, Lebanon, 501; Company I, Reading, 310, and Company K, Lancaster, 525.

Colonel John S. Muckle, Commander-in-Chief of the Naval and Military Order of the Spanish-American War, proved a royal host at a luncheon tendered to about fifty companions at his summer home "Windrush," West School Lane, Germantown, on Saturday afternoon, June 21.

Captain George Hugh Smith, Inspector small arms practice, Third Infantry, will assume the duties of Brigade Quartermaster at Camp Cochrane. Major Smith is a well-known officer and a prominent business man, and one of the best rifle and pistol shots in the United States, and will prove a valuable acquisition to General Price's staff.
